Mayor, Manager, Planner Urban Renewal Hide Plans

In the face of public disenchantment with his position on Laguna Grande, Mayor Haddad is beginning to change his tune. He knows that the people won't buy his former plans so, he has made public in a paper obviously promoted by him, B.J. Dolan and others interested in the recall that he has been with the City Manager, Planner and Urban Renewal reviewing several plans for Laguna Grande. These plans reported to be in the City Manager's office, never fully exposed to the four councilmen, the elected officials of the community, have been kept "highly confidential" deliberately.

The Council and the public have the right to know with what schemers and promoters the Mayor, Manager, Planner and Urban Renewal are dealing with, particularly when the Laguna Grande Project has no funds allocated for such grandiose schemes. What if the project is completely rejected by the council and the community; Laguna Grande is only on a year to year budget under the Neighborhood Development Plans.

The Mayor reports that "they are reviewing several plans which consider the realigning of streets, reshaping Roberts Lake and Laguna Grande Lake will be reshaped and be reserved for recreational use."

Roberts Lake, which belongs to the City of Seaside and is not in the Laguna Grande Project, was reported by Russell Hoss, executive director of Redevelopment in Seaside, to have estimated costs and improving the drainage channel at $51,000. According to the Mayor, "Laguna Grande Lake will be reshaped and be reserved for recreational use." Since the lake belongs to Phil Calabrese, Mayor of Sand City, has he been contacted so that he is included in this secret scheme of the Mayor's. No, he hasn't.

When Russell Hoss was asked the estimated cost of acquiring Laguna Grande from Phil Calabrese, he said, "the cost of acquiring the Lake is the responsibility of the City and any information as to cost would have to come from them. There is no Federal money proposed for this purpose."

No costs are available to indicate what engineering is necessary to use a Lake which does not belong to the City.

Mr. Calabrese reports that the Lake is valued at $600,000 and since it also borders Monterey, is Monterey going to help buy the Lake and Engineer it? Monterey certainly didn't join the City in the Laguna Grande?

Mr. Hoss reports that 113 dwellings are marked for demolition in the Laguna Grande Project, which means they have to be purchased to demolish them. The estimated cost of doing this is $1,130,000.

He further reports that 147 dwellings are

Seaside Ripples

A. E. 'Andy' Barragan, Publisher

Today the citizens of Seaside are faced with one of the most fiendishly concocted schemes to stop the progress of our city ever perpetrated on an unsuspecting public--a recall of our elected city council. Four councilmen and a mayor, elected less than eight months ago, have been threatened with recall from their very first meetings.

A.E. Barragan

Two of these councilmen, Jerry McGrath and Pearl Carey, were elected by an aroused community that was tired of being pushed around by a one-man rule in city hall. Now a small group of power-hungry men want to recall all of the council because the new council has some regard for the rights of the small people in the community rather than allowing a select few to run the city. Now, these select few don't like this and through the process of the recall have instituted a "Rule or Ruin" campaign in our fair city.

I have always been proud of the democratic processes in the State of California. We have been relatively free of the "Mayor Hague" and ism in our state because some far-sighted men like Hiram Johnson, fought off the attempts of big business interests, such as the Southern Pacific Railroad, to impose a puppet-like government in our state and cities about 50 years ago. At that time many laws were enacted which, for example, make all council, supervisorial and judgeship elections non-partisan, therefore not allowing any room for patronage to any local party obses. The recall process falls into the

Appeal On Post Office Site Is Due

An appeal on the decision of the planning commission denying the request of the Postal Department on two separate locations was undoubtedly in the offing at the next council meeting since the city council "directed" the applications of the Postal Department which have been left hanging by the Haddad-appointed planning commission.

The Seaside Planning Commission last week rejected two sites furnished by the Post Office Department as potential locations for a new Seaside Post Office. The postal service had first proposed a site at the corner of Broadway and Terrace Streets and that request was previously tabled by the commission largely made up of members appointed by Mayor Haddad.

Because of the previous denial by tabled by the commission and delaying tactics, the city council directed its planning commission to come up with a yes or no decision on a location for the post office. The Postal Department also was interested in a location in the Gateway project at Geary Plaza.

This location drew opposition and both sites were later denied by the commission.

Commissioner Bud Marshall and newly-appointed Ted M. Roberts voted to grant the application at Terrace and Broadway. Linda Bassett, also newly-appointed, abstained and the remainder of the commissioners voted against.

Chairman Don Howland ruled the vote a three to three tie. Planning Director William Burris protested on the tie ruling and the city code was consulted. It showed that abstaining commissioners, in effect, cast their vote with the majority. Therefore the vote was declared as four to two for denial of the application.

Decoration Contest Is Tonight

The Mayor's Committee for the 1970 Seaside Christmas Decoration Contest solicits the cooperation of each Seaside resident and businessman in making this year's theme: "Peace and Goodwill To All Men," a reality.

Chairman Art Bayer reports that the intent of the committee is that all homes in the Seaside area display some type decoration. This year's contest will be judged in three categories: single dwellings; blocks and courts and business establishments. Judging will be done tonight at 7 p.m. Cash awards and the Mayor's Trophy will be presented the afternoon of December 23, 2 p.m. in the Seaside City Hall.

Entry blanks are available at the Seaside Chamber of Commerce and the Seaside Fire Department.

Halfway House Established

The Seaside City Planning Commission has voted to allow a "halfway house" be established in the city. A use permit was granted for the house at 1382 Sonoma and 1395 Judson.

The house, which is for the rehabilitation of prisoners on parole, would provide services for about 30 parolees. Services will include job and vocational counseling, room and board, as well as other assistance.

According to James Golden, rehabilitation counselor for Young Adults for Action, the Halfway House will provide "a much needed place to live" for prisoners released on probation.

The commissioners voted to approve the permit, with a limit of 15 parolees at any time, but without a fence.

Beth Foley Appointed

Planned Parenthood of Monterey County has appointed Miss Beth Foley as their Director of Information and Education.

In this capacity, Miss Foley will have responsibility for developing new and more intensive and effective methods for reaching a greater number and broader cross-section of Monterey County's populace. She will coordinate the activities of the affiliate, its purposes, programs and services to the public and to other community agencies and she will assist in the development of programs furthering inter-agency coordination of all phases of family planning.

Recent California Department of Public Health figures for Monterey County point up the need for developing its birth control education efforts. Of 4516 live births in Monterey County in 1968, one-third, 1537 births were illegitimate.

Miss Foley comes to Planned Parenthood after recently resigning her position as Director of Family Planning for the Monterey County Antipoverty Coordinating Council. She is a registered nurse; holds a Master of Science degree from UC Berkeley. Next spring, 1971, she will present her Ph.D. dissertation in Sociology to the thesis committee at Berkeley.

"As Director of Information and Education," said Miss Foley, "I think one of the first priorities of the program should be the sexually active teenager. We cannot continue to deny what is so obviously a social fact. To deal with the situation realistically, we must provide professionals in the fields of Health, Education, Welfare and Correction with expert resource persons and educational opportunities to help these young people. We also hope to provide counselling and guidance to parents when it is requested, and to involve interested young people in developing educational programs directed to their own situation."

Miss Foley's address is Director, Information and Education, Planned Parenthood of Monterey County, P.O. Box 1011, Monterey, California 93940.

Dolan's Recall Candidate List Backfires Badly

A purported list of "potential candidates" for the Seaside city council in the event of a recall fizzled and back-fired on investigation by the Seaside Post. Only one of the list contacted definitely will run if the "slate" is right, two others indicated that they might run one had already announced and most of the others were either surprised or outright indignant that their names had been used as potential candidates.

The potential list of candidates had been given to the press by B. J. Dolan, prime mover of a recall of the Seaside City Council, who, this week, also announced that the recall petitions were being circulated in all 15 of the city's precincts and that, as of last Thursday, there had been 764 signatures obtained "across the board".

Dolan provided the press with the list of candidates, who he said had been furnished to him as potential candidates for the city council.

He stated, "All of the potential candidates possess qualifications that many of the present council lack. Electing persons who have had no previous city experience contributes to the sorry state of affairs the city is in at the present time."

The following people, named by Dolan as potential candidates, were contacted by this newspaper and here are their replies:

Sam Brown, Trustee MPUSD and Planning Commissioner, Mrs. Brown came into the offices of The Seaside Post protesting to the editor that her husband was not a candidate. (Mrs. Brown mistakenly thought that we had published the list). Contacted the next day at home Mrs. Brown confirmed the fact that her husband, Sam Brown, was definitely not a candidate.

Lessie Carraway, Parks and Recreation Commissioner; community leader. Mrs. Carraway said that she was not going to run under any circumstances for that position. "I wouldn't be in this hassle for all of the money in the world. I am very concerned for the community but I am not going to run for any public office this time."

John Perkins, Seaside

Photographer; longtime community leader. Perkins said, "No, No No, I'm not involved and I am not a candidate for any office, No, no, no."

Church Raises Funds for Social Hall

The New Hope Baptist Church at 1304 Sonoma Street in Seaside held a fund-raising drive last Sunday, December 13. The purpose of the drive is to raise funds to complete the work already started on the church social hall.

A queen contest was held with Mrs. L. Dunn, Miss P. Williams and Mrs. Wallace as the leading contestants. Reverend J.W. Page, Pastor of the New Hope Baptist church presided at the affair.

Father Hill Returns to Seaside

The Reverend David Hill, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church in Carmel, has been made priest-in-charge of St. Matthias Episcopal congregation in Seaside. Fr. Hill organized the Seaside Episcopal community in 1953 and was full-time pastor here until 1959 when he became the rector of the Carmel parish.

His new duties in Seaside involve a Sunday morning Eucharistic celebration at 10 a.m. and a bi-monthly ecumenical study class on Sundays 7:30 - 9 p.m.

"A lot has changed since I worked here a dozen years ago," Fr. Hill has remarked. "Not just in the local community, but in the Christian Church. Now we must work side-by-side with our brothers in all denominations and try to serve the community where we live. That's why I'm so excited about the new parish mission of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church on the south side of Seaside. They are sharing our building here and their priests Fr. Tod Brown and Fr. Victor Farrel and I share much good fellowship and programming. We all feel keenly the need to minister to young people—their exciting search for a new and better way to live as American Christians. We'll be making use of their folk-songs and easy relaxed style in our liturgical worship along with guitar music as well as traditional organ. Their spirituality and moral fervor in ecology and honesty are exciting challenges to us in the 'establishment.'"

Fr. Hill will continue as rector of the Carmel parish, which now includes a Day School in the Carmel Valley and a parish mission of Santa Lucia in Big Sur. He will be assisted in his Seaside work by the Reverend Arthur Cunningham of the Carmel parish's staff. Both priests can be reached by phone through the Carmel parish, 624-3883.

Evolution Is Topic

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the topic of the Lesson-Sermon to be read at all Christian Science churches Sunday. Services on the Monterey Peninsula will begin at 11 a.m.

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea," reads a verse from Psalms.

The supporting commentary from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy includes this citation:

"Jesus said: 'I knew that Thou hearest me always,' and he raised Lazarus from the dead, stilled the tempest, healed the sick, walked on the water. There is divine authority for believing in the superiority of spiritual power over material resistance."

Nativity Scene Is Unique

A "Living Nativity" scene will be presented by Faith Lutheran Church of Seaside nightly December 19-23 from 7 to 8 p.m.

The lighted tableaux consists of a cattle shed with a girl from the church portraying Mary kneeling at the manger. Grouped outside the shed in motionless pantomime will be four young people portraying Joseph and the shepherds.

Live animals are also part of the scene. Two donkeys are tethered outside the cattle shed. Six sheep, which are staked near the shepherds complete the scene.

The Christ child's presence is portrayed by a soft yellow light nestled in the straw of the manger. Christmas music is played during the hour long presentation.

The impetus for the "Living Nativity" was provided by Rev. Robert E. Bendick, Pastor of Faith.

"The purpose of the scene is to help people remember," explained Pastor Bendick, "that Christmas celebrates the birth of Jesus Christ, God's Son and our Savior."

The costumes were made by the Women of the Church. The men responsible for the tableaux are James Bakken, John Weigant, Robert Goad, Harlan Ratsch, Dr. Russell Elsberry, Bill Hendley and Herman Dean. W.D. Hall from Wasco, California helped the local church in their preparation for the scene. The Lutheran Church in Wasco presented the "Living Nativity" while Pastor Bendick was serving there.

Securing the animals was a difficult task. "There just aren't many sheep and donkeys in or around Seaside," explained Pastor Bendick. A donkey was loaned by Fred Nason of Carmel Valley and the sheep were finally obtained from the Agricultural Department of Hartnell College.

The community is invited to drive by the church to view this unique living picture of the Nativity. Faith Lutheran Church is located at 1460 Hilby Avenue in Seaside.

Conference Will Study Steinbeck

A three-day conference and film festival celebrating the life and works of famed American author John Steinbeck will be held at San Jose State College February 26-28.

Sponsored by the English Department, the festival promises to be one of the most comprehensive studies ever held of the novelist, according to Dr. Martha Cox, professor of English and organizer of the conference. It will feature a unique tour of Steinbeck Country on Sunday, February 28.

Steinbeck scholars from throughout the United States will be present to give insight into the writer's life and books. A Steinbeck seminar will feature such participants as Peter Lisca, author of "The Wide World of John Steinbeck," Richard Astro, who is currently writing an extensive biography of Steinbeck, Tetsumaro Hayashi, editor of "The Steinbeck Quarterly," Walt DeFaria, producer of "Travels With Charley" and "America and Americans," Herbert Kline, director of "The Forgotten Village" and Barnaby Conrad, producer of "Flight."

The festival centers on the 68th anniversary of the birthday of Steinbeck, which will be celebrated at a Steinbeck Anniversary Dinner Saturday evening. Webster F. Street, a Monterey lawyer and close friend of Steinbeck, will speak during the dinner celebration.

The film festival portion of the conference will present talks by film directors and producers who worked with Steinbeck and feature such films as "The Forgotten Village," "Flight," "The Pearl," "America and Americans" and "Of Mice and Men."

As the final event of the festival, the Sunday tour of Steinbeck Country will visit the Salinas birthspot of the writer, Cannery Row in Monterey and possibly the Pastures of Heaven near the Santa Lucia Mountains.

The tour is designed to give an overall view of the countryside that inspired that inspired Steinbeck to write most of his famous novels, including "Grapes of Wrath," which won Steinbeck the Pulitzer Prize in 1940, "Tortilla Flat," "Cannery Row," and "Sweet Thursday."

Included in the tour will be lunch in Monterey that will be attended by several local residents who knew Steinbeck well.

Steinbeck, who died in 1968 at the age of 66, was the author of more than 18 books and one of only six Americans who have won the Nobel Prize for Literature.

Registration information may be obtained from Dr. Cox, Department of English at SJSU, 294-6414, ext. 2046.

Community Relations Studied

A training program for police officers designed to develop improved police community relations has been funded on the San Jose State College campus by a $117,840 grant from the California State Commission on Peace Officers Standards and Training (P.O.S.T.).

Three six-week sessions, each limited to 20 participants have been planned for the academic year. The first session ended November 20. The other sessions are scheduled for January 11 to February 20 and April 12 to May 21.

Donald E. Matthews, associate professor and coordinator of graduate studies in the Department of Administration of Justice, is directing the program. While enrolled in the sessions, the participants will study a local city and develop a police community relations program for that area, based on demographic and attitude surveys and other studies conducted during the course. The final project for each session will have the students evaluate what they have learned from and about the classroom city and relate it to their own home towns.

"An important part of each session will be devoted to developing an increased awareness of minority culture and other sub cultures, such as students, on the part of the police officers," Matthews explained. "The participants are encouraged to design educational and other innovative programs that would help police community relations."

The two cities being studied during the first session are Salinas and Milpitas. They were selected, according to Matthews, because Salinas is a typical rural town with agricultural and labor problems and Milpitas is a typical small urban city that could even correspond to a precinct in a much larger city such as San Francisco.

Different areas will be selected for each session and will be chosen for their resemblances to the home towns of the participants.

Police officers are selected for the sessions by P.O.S.T. and have all exhibited some leadership qualities in their individual agencies, Matthews said.

Students in the first session represent such widely-varied agencies as the six-man police force in Ripon to the 1500 officer San Francisco Police Department. They come from cities as far away as Eureka and Chula Vista.

The training program has been approved for one year.

MPC Turns School Over To Public

Monterey Peninsula College turned over 11 new buildings and an amphitheater to its 5,800 day and evening students - and to the community which supports its program - in rededication ceremonies recently in the MPC gymnasium.

In making the presentation, President George J. Faul, who had earlier discussed the college's just-completed $7,699,786 building program and the 1965 bond election which launched it, told Kit Snow, ASMPC prime minister, that "the only reason for the college is you, the students:

present and future." In "receiving" the college on behalf of the students, Snow said: "I wouldn't be here if MPC still had room for only 1800 students. I'd probably be driving a truck. "In passing the bond election, the community demonstrated faith in you (Dr. Faul), and a faith in education which gives everybody hope."

Other speakers at the morning convocation were Sherman Smith, chairman of the college board of trustees; and Fred Keeble of the Monterey firm of Keeble and Rhoda, campus architects. Ralph Atkinson, a former board chairman and still a trustee, was also present.

Special tribute was given to Stephen James, a former faculty member who acted as building program coordinator; Dr. Remsen Bird, president emeritus of Occidental College, who was one of the "founding" spirits of the college; Seaside Councilman Steve Ross, who was a member of the 1965 bond election steering committee; the "dedicated and brilliant faculty which spent thousands of

Age of CHP Officer Is Dropping

A typical member of the California Highway Patrol is a young, married, family man with a better-than-average education and prior military service, CHP Commissioner H. W. Sullivan reports.

In the past five years, while the Patrol has grown to almost twice its former size, the average age, the average age of cadets entering the Academy has dropped from 26.6 to 25 hours in helping the architects in planning the new facilities and the hundreds of citizens who have supported the college."

years. The image of the Patrol is now a much younger one. Almost 80 percent of the men entering the Academy are married and have an average of slightly more than one child per man.

Sixty to 70 percent of the cadets have had some additional formal education, averaging almost one and one-half years of college work.

After graduation from the Academy, many members continue their studies at community colleges, state colleges and universities.

"We have no precise statistics regarding the on-going education of our uniformed personnel," Commissioner Sullivan reports, "but we know that many of the successful candidates in our promotional examinations are men who have continued their education."

The Department is presently attempting to assist its members and employees in advanced and specialized education, with particular emphasis upon courses in police science, community relations, law, business and public administration. Full or partial tuition is sometimes provided for employees whose courses are directly related to their work.

Currently, one captain, two lieutenants and three sergeants are engaged in full-time advanced study (three working on master's degrees in administration) at the University of Southern California, Michigan State College, Northwestern and the University of California at Irvine.

In 1968-69, a lieutenant and a sergeant completed their master's degrees under such programs and in 1969-70, three sergeants and a lieutenant had a year of full-time, advanced study.

Your Social Security

by Raymond MacDonald

Q. I'm going to be 65 in a few months but will go right on working just 1 am now. Is there any reason why I should put in my claim for Social Security benefits?

A. Yes, indeed there is. Medicare benefits are payable at 65 and after whether or not you are retired. But your Medicare doctor bill insurance can begin on the first day of the month you are 65 only if you sign up in one of the 3 months before the month of your 65th birthday. If you wait until your birthday month... or later... your coverage will be delayed one to three months. Whether you plan to retire at 65 or continue to work after 65, visit your Social Security office 2 or 3 months before your birthday.

Q. Is it true that a younger worker has to work under Social Security to get Medicare than an older person?

A. Yes. The Medicare program just became effective in 1966. It was felt that the aged person who badly needed the Medicare program would be denied coverage unless some escalator plan was used to insure workers. Thus, a person who was 65 before 1968 needed no work under Social Security to get Medicare. A worker reaching 65 in 1968 must have earned 3 quarters of coverage to receive hospital coverage--increased to 6 in 1969, 9 in 1970 and continuing at 3 step intervals until the requirements for hospital and regular Social Security will be the same in 1975. This way the elderly worker is not penalized for having had little chance to work under the Social Security program.

Deaths Can Be Reduced

Death and disability from high blood pressure could be greatly reduced if doctors prescribed drugs for mild and moderate cases of hypertension as they now do for severe ones.

This is the conclusion reached by a group of Veterans Administration doctors after a five-year study of the problem at 17 VA hospitals.

The VA study, reported recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association, followed 380 male patients who had diastolic blood pressure of 90 to 114, a range that is considered mild or moderate.

The majority of the 20 million Americans who have hypertension or high blood pressure, the nation's second most common cause of death, have the mild or moderate form of the disease.

VA said that half the patients in the study were given anti-hypertensive drugs and half were given placebos -- inert pills. All were followed for periods of from one to 5.5 years for an average of 3.3 years.

Data from all 17 hospitals was reported to a central coordinator who analyzed and compared the information. Results show that the risk of death for the treated group was reduced by more than a half, and the risk of congestive heart failure, stroke and other complications by more than a third.

Anti-Smoking Signs Are Displayed

A set of unique "no smoking" signs are being distributed in Monterey County by local volunteers of the Central Mission Trails Heart Association.

In a light-hearted way four posters in a set state: "Thank You For Not Smoking." They are being displayed in plants and industries, schools and colleges, stores, banks, beauty parlors, community centers, hospitals, clinics, physicians' offices... wherever people might be tempted to smoke.

Individuals who would like to have the posters for home use or as good-natured reminders to themselves or others of the wisdom of not smoking can obtain copies by writing to the Heart Association, 541-A South Main Street, Salinas 93901.

same category. The recall process was enacted into law so that the people would have a democratic process by which to get rid of dishonest and corrupt elected officials or those, who for some other serious reasons were unfit to govern.

Because recalling a public official is of such a serious nature, these recall laws were made quite stringent. First, you have to charge the individuals with whatever crime they committed, then they get a chance to answer and both the charge and the answer have to be published and after seven days have elapsed you can start circulating petitions for signatures from only bona fide registered voters. You have to get a goodly percentage of the voters who voted in the last election to sign the recall petitions and then these names have to be certified by the registrar of voters that they are actually registered. If you don't get enough signatures in the allotted time of 60 days, you can petition for additional time and go out and again try to get some more signatures. Then, if you get the required amount of signatures, they can be challenged by the parties involved and you could go into a court process.

This could take 6 months or more. What we are trying to say is that the recall process is long, hard, arduous and very expensive and not designed to be taken lightly.

We don't think that this democratically conceived law was ever intended to cover fiendishly concocted schemes such as the Dolan and Haddad forces are trying to perpetrate on the people of Seaside. Just because Mayor Haddad can't continue to rule over the council in his former roughshod manner and impose the will of the "special interests" over the will of the majority of the people, he has had some childishly contrived charged drawn by his cohort and former city attorney, Saul Weingarten. Weingarten knows that the recall law wasn't passed to cover such situations as this, where one of the charges is "that Seaside has become a laughing stock." Now what does that mean?

Did any of those charged violate the city charter or the state or federal constitution? Are any of them guilty of bribery or corruption or moral disintegration or any other serious charge which would justify a recall? No. They are only guilty of having the interest of the people of Seaside ahead of the special interest of a few. They are guilty of trying to institute a democratic process down at city hall instead of a one-man rule.

Those persons, who would stop the wheels of progress here in Seaside, are well coached on how to completely disable a city through the process of instituting a recall and keeping things in a turmoil, so that they can show "lack of progress." For example: Mayor Haddad has for years been badgering the postmaster and Postal Department to build a new post office. So finally the Postal Department agrees to build a new post office. They come down to Seaside and look over many sites and go through the legal process of filing for a use permit on one of the locations. But this location doesn't suit the Mayor and some of his "special interests"; they want another location more suited to their interests. Do we go through the democratic process? Yes, we sure do. The mayor orders his planning commission to halt the use permit and we have been going through the comical process of having the Postal Department turned down time and again on any location they propose, since they won't agree to the site wanted by the mayor and his cohorts. So now it seems that the city council had to order the planning commission to make a decision, yes or no. The planning commission said no, so now it came back to the city council who, I am sure, will allow the Postal Department to build a post office somewhere where it will serve both the community and the Postal Service in the best manner.

That is only one example of the "Rule or Ruin" tactics being used by Mayor Haddad and his "special interest" group. Yes they are well-coached. Someone who read the books real well is directing the efforts of this "Rule or Ruin" group. I don't give Dolan or Haddad the credit for knowing that much. But someone who will benefit by the re-institution of the one-man rule in Seaside is pulling the strings on these small puppets.

Citizens of Seaside, you cannot let them fool you with their phoney recall. If the people of Seaside want a chance to change their government, they will have plenty of time to do so in the next elections, not over a year after a so-called recall election. Let's not allow these small puppets to prostitute the democratic processes of our state on this recall farce.

Scheduled for removal, according to Hoss, are 21 commercial buildings, but no idea what it would cost to acquire both the buildings and the businesses. How many millions is a question the public and council needs to know.

There were in the Laguna Grande Project, 23 business structures identified as being suitable for rehabilitation.

The Mayor states that there is still consideration being given to a convention facility in the general area, while Hoss reports there are no estimates for a convention center and that to justify either the cost or the feasibility of a convention center a definitive study will have to be provided. Not even an idea of what the study would cost.

The estimated cost of developing the Laguna Grande, is $5 to $6 million, but it does not take into account the cost of acquiring the lake, the engineering of the lake and after all is said and done the project can provide 300 to 400 motel units (rooms) without a convention center and up to 800 units with a convention center, according to Hoss.

How many residential lots would be created in the project? According to Hoss none would be created.

The Mayor states that "We have a commitment to developers and possible tenants not to publicize the project beyond this informational item."

The public should know who made the commitment to any developers and tenants and just how much is it going to cost the community to deliver to line the pockets of developers and tenants? Who has the right when dealing with the profit of private home owners and individual businesses to make plans to get rid of them, without disclosing such facts to the people.

Does Seaside need to get rid of more people to make room for motels? Does it need to get rid of business at this time? Do the Mayor, City Manager, Planning Director and Urban Renewal think they are going to foist another grandiose plan and put this city in the same fix that the City of Monterey is in today?

The Citizens of Seaside, taxpayers and business people, have the right to know. It is the City Mayor, the Manager, the Planning Director, and the Urban Renewal that needs to be removed from this city for conniving in private, taking away all the powers of the people to be involved in their own destiny.

The Mayor can be recalled, but the four councilmen and woman that the Mayor is working every day to have recalled have the right to fire the manager, the planning director and Urban Renewal Director and to go a step further, they can take over the management of the Urban Renewal entirely.

Has it been this same past connivance that has put Seaside in the "Pit" of the Gateway Center, with almost as much bareland in Urban Renewal as in Monterey?

The Mayor does not need his plans sabotaged, he needs to have his plans and his cohorts, removed instead.

Who Cares

BY Mel Vercoe

The personal tragedies of the families of the victims of war should be above exploitation, yet that is the nature of war--that no weapon should be overlooked or discounted.

We heartily condemned the Germans for strafing and bombing lines of refugees in order to clog highways, then we did the same thing with the whole city of Dresden just to make it useless as a haven for refugees from the Russian front. The so-called enemy in Asia may murder civilians in a village just to terrorize the survivors, then our planes may napalm out of existence or our troops may line up and systematically execute a whole village full of men, women, children and babies just because someone fired a shot from the vicinity of said village.

And the victims? They were people. Once they lived and breathed and had hopes for the future and had families and really wanted just one thing above all else--for a war to end to they could survive to finally die at some future date of plain old age.

But they can't. They are there and because they are there they may have more value to a field commander dead than alive--more value lying in a ditch than alive tilling a field for a crop that may in some way help some enemy.

What a real feeling of accomplishment we could have if every victim of our napalm and bombs and machine guns was a man of the caliber of Adolf Hitler; some one who deserved to die. But the victims are not Adolf Hitlers. The Adolf Hitlers usually live on to write their memoirs and to plot new wars, while the victims just die to be forgotten after their usefulness is ended.

We have been told for over nine years that we give aid and comfort to our enemy if we voice an opinion against our genocide program in Asia and many of us have patriotically remained silent.

The duties for which thou hast been prepared,
Step forward bravely, climb to heights supernatural,
And joy shall come to take the place of tears.

We come to tell thee that we're standing near thee;
New hope-, new courage-, to inspire the we bring,
Ope up thy soul-, the LIGHT is shining for thee,
And let the praise in joyful anthems ring!

Ring out the TRUTH-, a weary world is waiting
For LIGHT and POWER-, which sets the captives free,
Go forward bravely to the tasks awaiting,
We will sustain- and hand in hand shall be.

Letter to the Editor

Editor:

It is my understanding that there is some consideration by the Seaside City Council to withdraw the city's contribution to the community school program. Such a move would be folly of the highest order. The city's current expenditure of approximately $26,000 for support of community schools represents an enormous bargain for our community. There is no way this sum could generate the facilities, equipment and personnel needed to operate a recreational program suitable for the needs of Seaside without the close working relationship that exists with the school district.

As a taxpayer in this community, I will resist efforts that would enable the city to provide its own recreational facilities apart from the schools'. At this point in time, the taxpayer cannot afford to provide duplicate swimming pools, gymnasiums, meeting places and equipment.

As I review the community school programs with which I am familiar at King Junior High School and Seaside High School, I see tremendous numbers of people, young and old, being served. I know that other schools in Seaside are also meeting the expressed needs of their communities.

If any segment of our population feels that the current program is not responsive to his desire, he need only contact the community school director or the principal of the Seaside school closest to him. Such a contact will almost assuredly result in the generation of the desired program.

May I say in closing that the benefit for community schools works both ways. Not only does the community profit, but, through such a program, the schools and the communities they serve are tied more closely together. This, I submit, is one of the most pressing needs of our time.

Sincerely yours,

James R. Solberg, Ph.D.

THE PHONE BOOTH

We know that everyone likes to call friends and relatives long distance during the Christmas holidays. That's why we'll have every available Operator on duty and all circuits in operation to handle an expected record number of calls. But just as freeways get crowded during rush hour traffic, our telephone lines sometimes become overloaded during the peak Christmas period. To help avoid delay in getting your call through we suggest:

PLAN YOUR CALLS--
Since Christmas and New Year's both fall on Fridays, you can take advantage of the same low rates as the holiday by placing your calls during the weekend. That way you'll have a better chance of getting your call through quicker. (Also, lines are not usually as busy in the afternoon.)

DIAL DIRECT-- Your call will go through faster if you dial it yourself, using the area code and number. If you get a busy signal, hang up and try again a few minutes later.

Have you noticed that now every one of our coin pay phones has an address card? Sometimes knowing exactly where you're calling from can be pretty important, like in an emergency, or when someone is coming to pick you up. This is just one more way we've tried to make our pay phones more useful to you.

ALL OF US at Monterey Peninsula's Pacific Telephone want to wish ALL OF YOU a very MERRY CHRISTMAS and the best for the NEW YEAR ahead. We've enjoyed serving you in 1970 and we've tried to bring you the best service possible. Our resolution for 1971 is to continue working toward this goal.

Grooving Around the Peninsula with Betty Mann

Hi There Fellow Peninsulans:

Happenings last week and the coming week include Mayor Haddad's smear campaign against the new city council members. Never in my life have I seen such a disgusting and uncouth display of irrationalism and selfishness on the part of an elected official in public office. The citizens of this city are being used as scapegoats by this absurd recall election. Our mayor has always had his way on the old city council and was always able to dictate his desires and wishes to the old council whether he was right or wrong. His display of erraticism was indeed disgusting to all of us who have attended a few of these council meetings and witnessed his antics. If you were in the audience and wished to speak to the council about a problem and you were not in the Mayors corner, "baby", you really would get the lowdown works from "his majesty".

If you have never been exposed to gutter-sniping by the mayor, attend one of these hot meetings at the council! He will tell the public any of your personal business that he knows about you, such as: perhaps you are a welfare recipient or maybe you have had a slight brush with the law that no one knows about; he will tell it all. He will sometimes ask you before you speak if you are a property taxpayer and where is your property located. Citizens, this is the type of man we have as the Mayor of Seaside. The new council members came in to office and demanded that the people be heard and demanded equality for everyone. This is the reason for the disenchantment of the mayor and his new council members, and the reason for a recall election. Are we, the citizens and residents of this wonderful community, going to stand by and allow our Mayor to become a dictator over us?

President Nixon isn't happy with all of his cabinet members or elected congressmen and senators, but is the USA having a recall election because of his dislikes. Let us not be stupid and be the laughing stock of the country. People of Seaside let us evaluate the true issues and refuse to be a part of a dictatorship. With all of this fuming and fussing going on, I've been wondering if Mayor Haddad, who is fighting so hard for a recall election, is perhaps afraid that since Saul Wiengarten has been fired and a new city attorney is to be hired there is some hanky-panky amiss that might be uncovered? I just can't see the city paying for a recall election because the mayor can't get along with his council. An excellent and honest leader cannot help but command the respect of his worst enemies. ("quote" by Betty Mann, smile).

Here is something I wish to tell our Mayor. We the members of the black community are aware that you and your recall committee are trying to divide the black community; we have noticed the names of some of the black individuals that were mentioned in the news media that would make very good candidates, for the council if a recall does come about. Well, Mayor, we, the blacks, in Seaside are asking these black persons to refrain from falling into the same trap that has been practiced for years by the system, like splitting the people and dividing the votes. "Baby, we are hip now!"

One other discretion that I read in the papers stated that the published list of names of people who would be good prospective candidates for a position on the council, were more qualified than the one's we have now. Well, first of all each one our council members holds a college degree and looking on that particular list I know there are a few who have less than an elementary school education and also a few who have not finished high school, so lets face it, who is the most qualified?

It was brought to my attention by one of my neighbors that there would be no outdoor Christmas decoration contest this year. He was told by the Seaside Chamber of commerce that the Mayor was too busy with too many commitments to bother with it this year (I wonder if they meant he was too busy with the recall election smile). My neighbor was very indignant with the Chamber of Commerce because he stated that it was unfair not to have notified the public that there wouldn't be a contest since there has always been one every year and furthermore he stated people have spent lots of money on decorations so they could enter the Xmas judging contest. So I called our trusted councilwoman, Pearl Carey, and told her the news. She was also unaware of this and after a few inquiries she called and stated that the contest would be held after all. Now, who is on their job-the old or the new? (smile)

Other happier happenings around town included a surprise birthday dinner party hosted by Reverend H.H. Lusk at the Mark Thomas Inn, in honor of his wife, Betty, who was celebrating her 26th birthday. A host of 50 friends were invited and asked to be at the Mark Thomas at 8 p.m. on December 3 as guests of theirs, for Betty's birthday. After persuading his wife to go out to dinner on Cannery Row in honor of her birthday, Rev. Lusk told her he first had to stop off at the Mark Thomas, to say hello to an out of town friend of his. As the lovely couple entered the doors of the Terrace room, the host of friends sang happy birthday to a shocked and overjoyed Betty Lusk. The host and hostesses along with their guests were seated at a beautiful U-shaped flower-bedecked table and enjoyed a delicious dinner of T-Bone steak which was accompanied by a delightful-tasting imported champagne. (which yours truly certainly enjoyed - smiles) After the elaborate dinner, a beautiful birthday cake with three glowing sparklers afire was placed in front of the guest of honor who still possessed a shocked and

Housing Officer Retires

Chief Warrant Officer Joseph F. Loftus, housing officer for the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey retired from the Navy recently, after 30 years of active duty.

CWO-4 Loftus was in charge of La Mesa Village, the Navy housing area in Monterey, for the past two years. He was responsible for the maintenance supervision of 877 units and the welfare of more than 4,000 residents.

Loftus entered the Navy in 1940 as a seaman recruit and was aboard the battleship USS Tennessee when she was badly damaged during the attack on Pearl Harbor. After three years of submarine tender duty, he served from 1946 to 1949 on the destroyer tender USS Dixie. The Dixie helped move Nationalists Chinese from the mainland to Formosa during the Communist takeover in 1949.

Two years of recruiting duty ensued in Albuquerque, New Mexico, followed by Korean War service on the fleet tug USS Lipan. In 1956 Loftus was promoted from Chief Electrician's Mate to Warrant Officer.

After trips to the Arctic and Antarctic on the icebreaker USS Staten Island from 1959 to 1963, he served two years at the Brooklyn Navy Yard as ship superintendent.

Before transferring here, Loftus spent two years on the destroyer tender USS Cascade. For her logistic support during the 1967 recovery of the hydrogen bomb lost off the Spanish coast, the Cascade was awarded the Navy Unit Commendation.

CWO Loftus and his wife, Rickey, plan to make Monterey their home after some travel abroad. They have a son, Rob, who lives with his family in Salinas. Another son, Stephen, is stationed in Japan as an Air Force staff sergeant.

Promoted To Captain

Elmo H. Gardner Jr., son of Mrs. Isabel F. Gardner of Monterey, has been promoted to captain in the U.S. Air Force.

Captain Gardner, a weather officer at Yokota AB, Japan, is assigned to a unit of the Air Weather Service. The captain was commissioned in 1967 upon completion of Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Texas.

He graduated in 1957 from Monterey Union High School and attended Monterey Peninsula College and the University of California before entering the Air Force in 1963. He has since studied at Yale University.

He was commissioned this year upon completion of Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Texas.

SEASIDE CITIZENS WHY THE RECALL?

For years the Haddad group ran Seaside without threat of recall. The people had the power, but knew that a recall would divide the city. Now when the loyal opposition is in power the Haddad group wants to recall them.

The present council who were on the outside for years kept themselves out of any recall threats to the city council. They had the issues with Laguna Grande and the Library.

Our four Councilmen defeated their opponents in an honest election and should be allowed time to prove themselves.

Seaside does not need a recall. You the citizens will have to pay for the mayor's inability to give leadership to the council.

Here are some of the results of a recall:

1. People will be asked to choose sides and will be held legally responsible for things they say.
2. Merchants will be asked to agree or disagree and to become involved and run the risk of a customer boycott.
3. The City will not make any progress during the six months of recall.
4. The only one who will benefit is Haddad. He has all to gain and nothing to lose.

Why does Haddad have our city subjected to the most destructive political move—the recall?

It seems to be a move to gain personal political power.

Fellow citizens for the good of the City of Seaside, its businessmen, its treasury, for all of us, reject the recall. The proposed recall would occur less than twelve months before the next elections. Avoid the degradation, disruption and division that has not healed since the 1959 recall.

Seaside held its Bicentennial Finale on December 4, with a parade of nations fashion show, held in the Council Chamber of the Seaside City Hall. The affair was presented by the Seaside Art Commission, headed by Mr. Charles Lee; co-chairmen were Mrs. Ward Davis and Mrs. Patrick Johnson, with the cooperation of the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies and the International Committee of the Naval Postgraduate School.

Besides the lovely costumes from Burma, Philippines, Ecuador, Chile, Mexico, Arabia, China, Haiti, Colombia, Portugal, Thailand, Turkey, Africa, Japan, Germany, Iran, Spain and Greece, the public were fortunate to see the magnificent ethnic dances of Arabia, Chile and Turkey.

Mrs. Ulla Tocha, accompanied by Lt. Patrick Johnson, on guitar, sang a lovely medley of German folk songs. The show was very capably put to music by Mr. Robert Walls of Monterey Music.

All participants, with the exception of Arabia, Africa and Mexico are from the countries mentioned.

Mrs. Frumer Imarom and Mrs. Unchalee Nualprasert modelled two lovely costumes from Thailand, illustrating an interesting contrast between the more casual and more formal daytime wear. Andre Fields' name in Burmese is Hla Moon Khin. She wore a longyi, or skirt, made of hand-woven silk, with a typical Burmese design. The Angyi, or blouse, is made of nylon which is buttoned with hand-carved mother of pearl.

Lt. and Mrs. Romy Malig of the Philippines modelled magnificent hand-worked ensembles for formal occasions. The barong is worn by the men and is made of a just material which comes from plant fibers. His wife, Diana, wore the modern terno on which tiny beads and sequins form a lovely pattern of flowers around the neckline and the waist side seams. The butterfly sleeves are removable to reveal a new evening gown.

Shiela Haddad, representing Arabia, sixteen-year-old daughter of Mayor Lou Haddad of Seaside, wore a hand-made turquoise harem costume. She performed with excellence a dance called the Yhabimi. Dorothy Sung gave a glimpse of contemporary China in a splendidly tailored, red brocade evening coat. Underneath was a lovely dress of gold silk fashioned in the classical Mandarin style.

The most popular dance in the coastal areas of Colombia is the Cumbia. Maria Juan modelled the special dress to dance in. The long skirt was of different colors and is worn with a white blouse trimmed with laces to match the skirt. She was barefoot and wore a flower in her hair. Emilia Sanchez' costume was typical of the central region of Colombia, consisting of a black skirt trimmed with ribbons and ornaments of different colors. Hand-made sandals, called alpargatos, were worn on the feet. Raquel Serrano modelled a Panolon, a beautiful shawl, bordered in a magnificent pattern of hand-tied knots. The white skirt was of hand-painted orchids, the national flower of Colombia.

Isabel Saldanha and Helena Neto show two of the very colorful and beautifully embroidered costumes of Portugal. The skirts are fashioned of fine wool. Two scarves were worn with these costumes; one on the head and one over the shoulder. The laced vests were worn over white linen blouses highlighted by the full sleeves.

Tuley Sermiyasoglu wore the Bin Dalli (which means 1,000 leaves). This costume comes from "Erzurum," in the eastern sector of Turkey, and is made of velvets, on which 1,000 leaves are embroidered by hand with gold thread. The "uch etek" (meaning three skirts, modeled by Fatas Sengum is also from the eastern part of Turkey known as Elazc. It is made of printed satin of which the skirt has three pieces. The costume is worn with a white blouse and wide satin pants. Both costumes are worn with shoes embroidered with gold thread; the headdresses (decorated with old Turkish gold quarters and ornamented with silver plaques) are wrapped with silk surah scarves. Tulay and Fatos, accompanied by Eyyibe Enginler and Nimet Karan, performed a Turkish folk dance from eastern Anatolia called the Fatmali.

Sakura Johnson wore a long kimono called homongi, which is worn on formal occasions such as the Tea Ceremony or on New Year's. The magnificent prints are hand-dyed and accented with gold embroidery. To complete the ensemble, Sakura wore a pair of white, soft cotton, two-towed socks called tabi's with leather thongs called zoris. (The print signifies springtime and strength and is worn on happy occasions.) Sakura, in Japanese, means Cherry Blossom. She is also an artist, whose work was displayed by the Seaside Art Commission. Regina Pfendtner, with her children, Reinhardt and Christianna, modelled the ever-popular dirndls and leiderhosen. The dirndls are made of sturdy printed cottons over which are worn colorful aprons. The knee-hosen are handmade of leather and are ideal for spring and summer "rough and tumble."

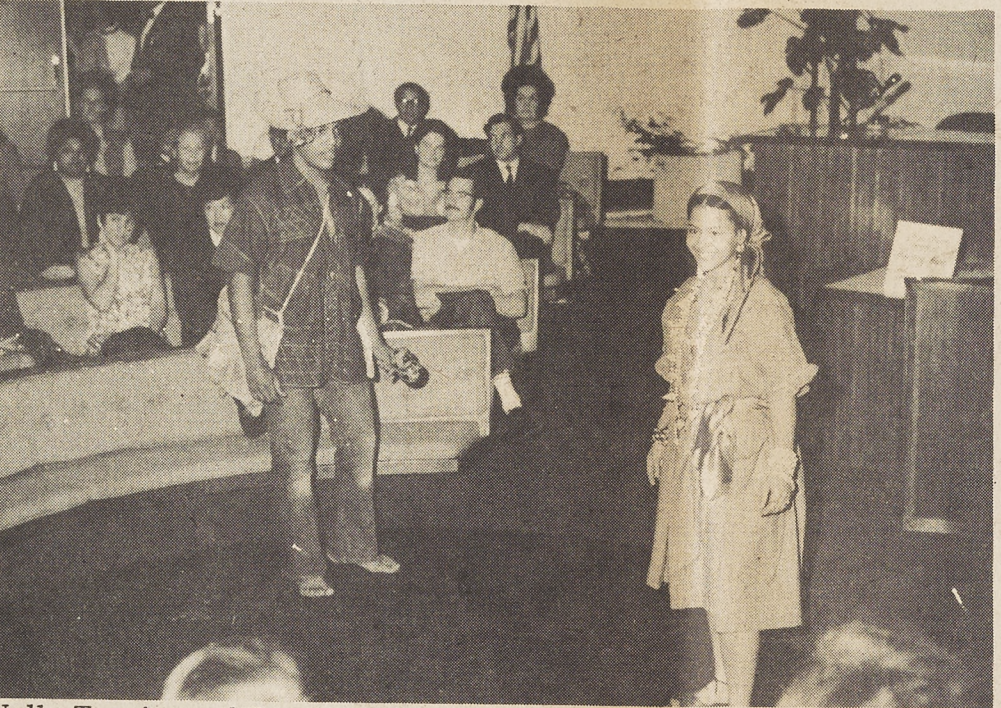

Typifying the northern sector of Iran, guests saw Rafat Zargray model the chasembadt. The skirt is black, festooned with row upon row of multicolored ribbons, each of which was stitched by hand. The red blouse was topped by a blue

Wives Meet

Stockings hung from the mantel and the yule log blazed on the hearth as ladies from the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Instrumentation, CDEEC and Litton gathered around the Christmas tree for their December luncheon at the Ft. Ord Officers Club. Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Harold E. Jensen, Mrs. L. J. Amdt and Mrs. Daniel M. Jones.

Mrs. Warren Sutherland, wife of the DCSI, announced projects and social events for the month and welcomed Mrs. Donald R. D'Armond, whose husband has joined the Engineering Division. Mrs. Michael Minor won the door prize, a handsome set of door chimes made by Mrs. Leonard Friesz. After luncheon, there was an exchange of hand-made gifts wrapped in plain brown

New Dimension Needed

A top Ford Motor Company official said recently that the only thing wrong with consumerism is that it may not go far enough in protecting the customer. He called for a "new dimension" in consumerism which helps insure that the customer gets his money's worth.

Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford North American Automotive Operations, said in his keynote address to the 18th annual marketing conference of the National Industrial Conference Board at the New York Hilton Hotel that "It isn't the possibility of consumerism going too far that worries me."

"Quite to the contrary," he asserted, "I'm worried that it isn't going to be carried far enough...consumer protection must take on another dimension."

"Specifically, I think consumer purchasing power is going to have to be protected against the impact of higher costs and higher prices."

"It's not enough to protect the buyer against actual or potential hazards, defective products, shoddy selling practices, service frustrations or a deteriorating environment. We won't have complete and genuine consumerism until he is also protected from such cost pressures as inflation, high taxes and wage rates that turn a leaky faucet into a family financial crisis."

Iacocca said that true concern for the consumer "cannot blind itself to the fact that he is also the bill-payer."

"The problem we face is how to give him the recognition he must have as the bill-payer without compromising his right to expect safe, healthful and good quality products and services..."

He added: "Safety, health, quality, durability, full measure, warranties, good service—these are the usual hallmarks of consumerism. But on top of them we are going to have to add one more—accountability that the consumer gets his money's worth."

Ford Sets Record

Ford Motor Company consolidated sales in the third quarter of 1970 were a record $3.4 billion, exceeding the previous third-quarter high of $3.2 billion set in 1969, Henry Ford II, chairman of the board, reported recently.

Net income a share was 68 cents in the third quarter of 1970, compared with 50 cents in the corresponding quarter of 1969 (earnings in the third quarter of 1969 were reduced by a non-recurring charge of 15 cents a share). Consolidated net income totaled $74 million in the third quarter this year, compared with $54 million in the third quarter last year.

Consolidated sales in the first nine months of 1970 were $10.7 billion, approximately the same as in the comparable period last year. Net income in the first nine months of 1970 was $365 million or $3.37 a share, compared with $402 million or $3.70 a share in the first nine months of 1969.

Album Offers 'New Sound'

The renowned Jazz Crusaders, responsible for a long string of successful jazz albums dating back almost ten years, have changed their style in a move toward a new modern sound for the 70's. The noted musicians are enjoying a new wave of popularity since the introduction of their "new sound" on the recently-released album, "Old Socks, New Shoes," and a single, "Way Back Home." The recordings, which were the Crusaders' pilot venture for Chisa Records, distributed by Motown Record Corporation, are a blend of jazz, rock, rhythm and blues, tying together the emotionalism of soul and the intricate subtleties of jazz.

Szabo Album

The new Gabor Szabo album, for Blue Thumb Records will feature four original instrumentals by the noted singer-composer-guitarist, Bobby Womack. The album, currently being recorded in Los Angeles, also features Womack with Gabor Szabo on guitar.

CORRECTION - We mistakenly identified above artist as Jim Crane in our last issue. He is Nick Guastella, who is standing near his beautiful wood sculpture, "Bird on a Cross." Internationally famous artist, who is almost 75, is member of International Academy of Art, Lecturer, Art and Science of Rome. Work is on display at Spical December International Art Exhibition, presented by Seaside Art Commission At City Hall in Seaside. Exhibit will run entire month of December, from 9-12 and 1-5 on Monday through Friday. There are 19 local artists representing various nationalities on display in honor of Bicentennial year of 1970. We regret any embarrassment we may have caused either Mr. Guastella or Mr. Crane.

Meals Are Taxable

R.B. Applegate, auditor in charge of the Monterey Employment Tax Office, Department of Human Resources Development reminds employees that meals and lodging furnished to non-agricultural employees as part of their wages are taxable for unemployment and disability insurance purposes.

Meals and lodging furnished employees in agricultural labor and nonprofit or district hospital employees, as defined in the Unemployment Insurance Code, are taxable for disability insurance purposes only. The meal valuations for 1971 are the same as for 1970. The scale adopted for 1970 is the base from which increases or decreases in meal valuations are computed. The regulations provide a formula from which this computation is made, geared to the cost of living indexes published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor.

The formula provides that whenever the average of retail food prices in California cities for the first nine months of any years varies by 10 percent or more from the average for the same months of 1969, the 1970 scale is modified upward or downward in substantially the same ratio. As the indexes show an increase of less than 10 percent during the first 9 months of 1970 over 1969, no change in meal valuations is required for 1971.

The 1971 scale of taxable value of meals is as follows: Three meals per day—$1.65; Individual meals: Breakfast—35¢, Lunch—50¢, Dinner—80¢. A meal not identifiable as either breakfast, lunch or dinner—55¢.

There is no change in the value of lodging, which generally is taxed at two-thirds of the ordinary rental value to the public, with a maximum of $75 a month and a minimum of $2.50 a week.

These lodging values apply only to non-maritime employees. For maritime employees aboard ship, the scale for licensed personnel is $1.65 a day for meals plus fifty cents a day for quarters, a total of $2.15. For unlicensed personnel the scale is $1.65 a day for meals plus thirty-five cents a day for quarters, a total of $2.00.

Applegate stated, however, that the above scales do not apply where higher valuations for meals and lodging are stipulated in a union agreement or contract of hire or are required for compliance with minimum wage laws. In such cases the higher values are the taxable values.

Employers who need help in preparing their returns may contact the Employment Tax Office at 474 Webster Street, Monterey or by telephoning 373-0143.

May 2 Is Race Date

Laguna Seca Raceway will again host the Sports Car Club of America's professional series for Formula 5000/A open-wheel cars during the 1971 racing season. Next year this competition will be known as the L&M Continental 5000 Championship and will be again sponsored by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, entering its second year in racing.

The 1971 Series, formerly named the Continental Championship, will feature nine events and a guaranteed total purse of $305,000. This is a 75 percent increase over last year's total of $252,000. The average guaranteed purse per event will jump from $19,400 in 1970 to $34,000 next year. Last year these single seat 5000cc Formula A cars competed for $19,000 purses in all but one race, where $24 thousand was paid. Next season, they will be running for $35,000 in each of the seven United States races and $30 thousand in the two Canadian races.

Nine events, held at the top

North American road racing circuits, will decide this Formula driver's championship. The schedule will start in May and continue into October, with the possibility of a tenth event to be added later. In 1970, L&M sponsored the Winner's Circle program and the L&M Championship trophies fund in the SCCA's Continental Championship Series.

The L&M Championship in 1971 will be backed by a cooperative advertising program and promotion campaign by L&M cigarettes working with the courses.

"We've learned a lot in our first year in racing," said Jack Soupard, L&M Vice President and Director of Marketing, "and we're convinced from a marketing standpoint, racing is a way to go."

"In 1971," said Soupard, "we're refining our approach, concentrating on the best courses, the best promoted events and the big Formula 5000/A cars. Top drivers will be attracted to nine races worth $305,000 plus contingency awards. And we'll present an extra $2,500 to the series champion with the L&M Trophy."

SCCA also revealed that at each event, $10,000 of the guaranteed purse will be paid to the top qualifiers. The remaining $25,000 in the U.S. races and $20,000 in the Canadian races will be paid to the top twenty finishers with the first place worth $4500 or $4000 respectively. Also, next year all starters will be credited with a total number of laps they complete in determining their finishing positions.

On May 2, the race will be held at Laguna Seca.

With confirmation of the May 2 race date, Laguna Seca Raceway officials have now firmed up two major professional championship road racing events for 1971; the L&M Continental 5000 and the Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix Can-Am event on October 17. Negotiations are now underway for a possible third race during the summer, the date to be announced in the near future.

braid is real gold and it is the custom to use gold coins, called Pahlavee, approximately equivalent to twelve of our American dollars. How many depends on the wealth of the family. Her daughter, Cathy, modelled a child's costume from the same province. Bertha Montero showed an authentic hand-made costume worn by the Spanish gypsies in the tablanos flamincos. La Chunga, one of the most famous flamenco dancers in Spain, always wears a costume of this sort. Typifying the Southern sector of Spain, Naty Bobadilla, her daughter Rosio and Sylvia and Patrician Rodriguez modelled the costumes worn by the people during the fairs that take place during the Spring. The design is familiar, but may vary in the length of the trails or in the choice of materials which can range from the most beautiful laces to the charming percales which were shown.

Rene Sarzetakis wore a smock characteristic of the Migara area near Athens, Greece. The smock was a hand woven cotton with embroidery taken from ancient classical designs. The dyes used in the embroidery are always made from roots and herbs of various plants. The fustanella, worn by Kiki Sarzetakis, is a man's costume which dates back from the Greek War of Independence and has great historical value. Ayra Leonidas' dress is worn in the Macedonian or Northern section of Greece. It is made of heavy woven material to protect the women from the cold weather and is also beautifully hand embroidered. It appears to be only one dress; however, it is actually two. In all costumes, the underskirt has a lot of hand embroidery on it, even though it does not necessarily show except for the border. Lilette Ricaurte of Ecuador wore a marvelous red wool skirt, hand embroidered in silk by the Quencana Indians. The wool poncho, which incidentally is reversible, is accented by an Incan design. Her hat and handbag are intricately woven by hand by the Mantuhio Indians. Mrs. Teresa Vera of Chile wore a costume derived from the Huaso dress. The stunning jacket is made of alpaca and is hand trimmed in a pattern of sequins. The black skirt was sashed at the waist in muted stripes. Lt. Lionel Dorin wore the costume of the Huaso, which is the Chilean Country Horseman. Attached to his boots were spurs, intricately wrought of blue iron, with a diameter up to 4 or 5 inches.

Mrs. Richard Potochney, representing Mexico, modelled the "Oaxaca Wedding Dress." The full skirt and loose overblouse were richly embroidered with huge flowers of golds, greens, orchids and blues. Underneath, several petticoats are usually worn, each of which are bordered by accordin pleated fine lace. Nelly Turner, whose father teaches French at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, modelled a costume of heavy cotton, sashed with bright silk scarves. The Haitians prefer lively colors and like to wear lots of necklaces. One necklace, called the "madjock," is used to ward off evil spirits. Frantz La Marque, also a model from Haiti, wore a jacket of the same material, heavily stitched with white thread. Dorothy Vaughn, representing Africa, modeled a contemporary Afro-American costume. It was a floor length orange gown trimmed with ostrich feathers. The matching hat was taken from an original African design.

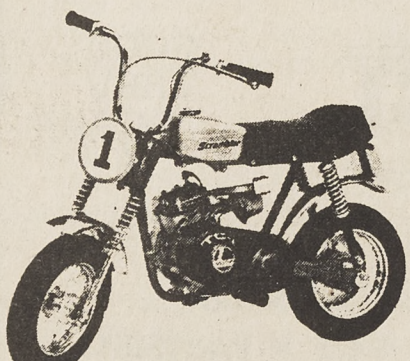

All models were outstanding in their native dress. The complete affair was one of the greatest performances held during the year. Most of the models were family members of foreign students attending the Naval Postgraduate School

Car Prices Are Higher

Manufacturers' suggested retail prices on new model passenger cars, after adjustments for quality changes, average $226 (or 5.9 percent) more than a year ago, the Department of Labor has reported.

The average covers a representative list of domestic cars except for the newly optional, and certain other changes which varied from car to car. The net quality reduction of $6 compares with increases of $46 in 1969

More Species Considered Endangered

Five more species of California wildlife have been added to the endangered species list of the U.S. Department of the Interior, the State Department of Fish and Game has announced.

Additional California species now threatened with extinction are the Morro Bay kangaroo rat, salt-marsh harvest mouse, brown pelican, California clapper rail and the Owens River pupfish.

These latest additions bring California's endangered species list to a total of 21 forms of animals--3 mammals, 8 birds, 7 fish, and 3 reptiles and amphibians. Already on the Secretary of the Interior's endangered list are the following species:

San Joaquin kit fox, California least tern, California condor, American peregrine falcon, southern bald eagle, Yuma clapper rail, light-footed clapper rail, blunt-nosed leopard lizard, San Francisco garter snake, Santa Cruz long-toed salamander, Lahontan cutthroat trout, Pute cutthroat trout, Mojave chub, Colorado River squawfish, Tecopa pupfish and unarmored threespine stickleback.

The California Legislature this year responded to the need to protect endangered fish and wildlife by adding an endangered species section to the Fish and Game Code which defines rare and endangered animals and gives the Fish and Game Commission authority to prohibit their sale and importation.

The California Species

Now He's An Officer

Marine Second Lieutenant Arthur Gomez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo E. Rutledge of Seaside, was graduated from Officer Candidate School at the Marine Corps Base, Quantico, Va.

Preservation Act directs the Department of Fish and Game to inventory California's threatened fish and wildlife, to develop rare and endangered criteria and to report to the Governor and the Legislature every two years on the status of these animals, making recommendations for their protection and enhancement.

The Act also adds to the list of fully protected birds the American peregrine falcon, California black rail, California clapper rail, light-footed clapper rail, Yuma clapper rail and the California least tern.

To the list of fully protected mammals were added the Morro Bay kangaroo rat, salt-marsh harvest mouse, Pacific white whale and wolverine.

A new section, fully protected fish, amphibians and reptiles, gives protection to the blunt-nosed leopard lizard, San Francisco garter snake, Santa Cruz salamander, limestone salamander, black toad, Colorado River squawfish, thicktail chub, Mojave chub, Lost River sucker, Modoc sucker, shortnosed sucker, humpback sucker, Owens River pupfish, unarmored threespine stickleback and rough sculpin.

These animals now can be taken only by permit from the DFG. Violation of this code section is punishable by a fine of $1,000 and/or a jail term not to exceed one year.

Protection has also been afforded world-wide endangered species through an addition to the Penal Code.

It is now unlawful to import into California for commercial purposes the dead body or parts thereof of the alligator, crocodile, polar bear, leopard, ocelot, tiger, cheetah, jaguar, red wolf, timber wolf, vicuna, sea otter, free roaming feral horse or Spanish lynx.

In addition, persons are now prohibited from importing those animals deemed endangered by the Secretary of the Interior pursuant to the Endangered Species Conserva-

Oroweat Adds Scholarships

For the academic year starting next September, both freshman and sophomore scholarships are available. The Oroweat scholarships may be used to pursue any course of study within the colleges.

In addition to complying with the usual scholarship requirements, contestants for the Oroweat awards must be residents of California or Nevada and must submit a short essay on a subject selected by the donor company.

High school seniors may obtain full information about the Oroweat Whole Grain Breads Freshman Scholarships from their schools' Educational Counselors.

Currently enrolled college freshmen should contact the Financial Aids office of the college of their choice regarding the Oroweat Sophomore scholarships.

Applications Available

Assemblyman Bob Wood has announced that applications are now being accepted for the California Assembly Internship Class of 1971-72. Applications must be submitted by January 29, 1971.

This program is a joint effort, involving the cooperation of the State Assembly and institutions of higher learning in California offering professional and graduate programs of study in the social sciences. Its purposes are three-fold: to provide assistance to the Members and committees of the State Assembly as a supplement to the staff services already available; and to foster research on the legislative process.

The internship is excellent training for careers in teaching, journalism, law or government service.

on his name being included in the list by Dolan, said "I am not and have not been at any time a candidate for city council. I am definitely against the recall; I have not given anyone permission to use my name as a potential or actual candidate."

Glenn Olea, Planning Commissioner and former Parks and Recreation Commissioner, stated that he was delaying his decision "until I see what happens in the recall. Lots of things have to be taken into consideration. Whatever is for the betterment of the community."

Charles Lee, Chairman of the Arts Commission, said, "If there is a new election, I will let my name stand if I can get the support."

Jack Oldemeyer, son of Seaside's first Mayor, said, "It depends on the slate. I am a candidate; the city is important to me and if that requires me, I will run."

Others on the list provided by Dolan but not reached for comment were: Mrs. Billie Barton, past vice chairman of the planning commission (Mrs. Barton has indicated in the press that she will be a candidate); Enrique Aquino, formerly president of the Fill-A-Merican Club; Joseph Coley, County Housing Authority; Joe Cota, Redevelopment member and former Mayor; Sarah Ector, Redevelopment Agency Member, former member of Parks and Recreation Commission; Howard Ingels, Chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission; Royal Manaka, member of the Parks and Recreation Commission.

The name of Gil Bautista, member of the Redevelopment Agency, had originally been provided, but it was withdrawn by Dolan. Prior to the withdrawal, Bautista told POST, "I want a public apology, I am not a candidate, I don't even know this man Dolan; I never met the man. No one has approached me." Bautista had seen his name used as a potential candidate in another paper, not the POST.

Recycling Of Glass Is Now Big Business

More than 42 million used glass bottles have been reclaimed and recycled into new bottles and jars by the nation's glass container manufacturers during the first three months of an industry-wide recycling program.

Richard L. Cheney, executive director of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, Inc., said in New York that "enthusiastic public response arising from growing concern with environmental problems" had resulted in the unprecedented volume of recycling, carried on at 92 glass container plants in 25 states from coast to coast.

Recycling coordinators at all plants reported that the volume of reclaimed bottles jumped sharply in each of the three months since the program was initiated on June 30, rising from 6-1/2 million in July to 13 million in August and to 22-1/2 million glass containers in September. Recycling operations in the bay area are being conducted at six plants by four local glass container manufacturers, Anchor Hocking Corporation, Brockway Glass Company, Inc., Glass Containers Corporation and Owens-Illinois, Inc.

These recycled bottles and jars do not include returns from special drives now being conducted by community action groups, scout troops and environmental organizations in several metropolitan areas, Cheney said.

Locally, GCMC supports Community Pride Ecology Centers, a non-profit organization operating five neighborhood collection centers for the convenience of Eastbay residents.

"We believe that our volume of reclaimed bottles will continue to increase significantly in the months immediately ahead," Cheney said.

He noted that the number of reclaimed glass containers collected has nearly doubled in each of the last two months and parallels the growth achieved by a GCMC-sponsored pilot reclamation project launched in the Los Angeles area earlier this year. The volume in Los Angeles has risen from 30,000 bottles the first week to a current level in excess of 1,350,000 per week.

More than $210,000 had been paid by GCMC member companies to individuals and non-profit groups collecting and returning used bottles and jars by the end of September.

Cheney said that the money being offered—approximately a penny a pound—is not the

VA To Buy More From Minorities

The Veterans Administration has contracted for or is in the process of negotiation for some $2.5 million worth of goods and supplies from minority business firms.

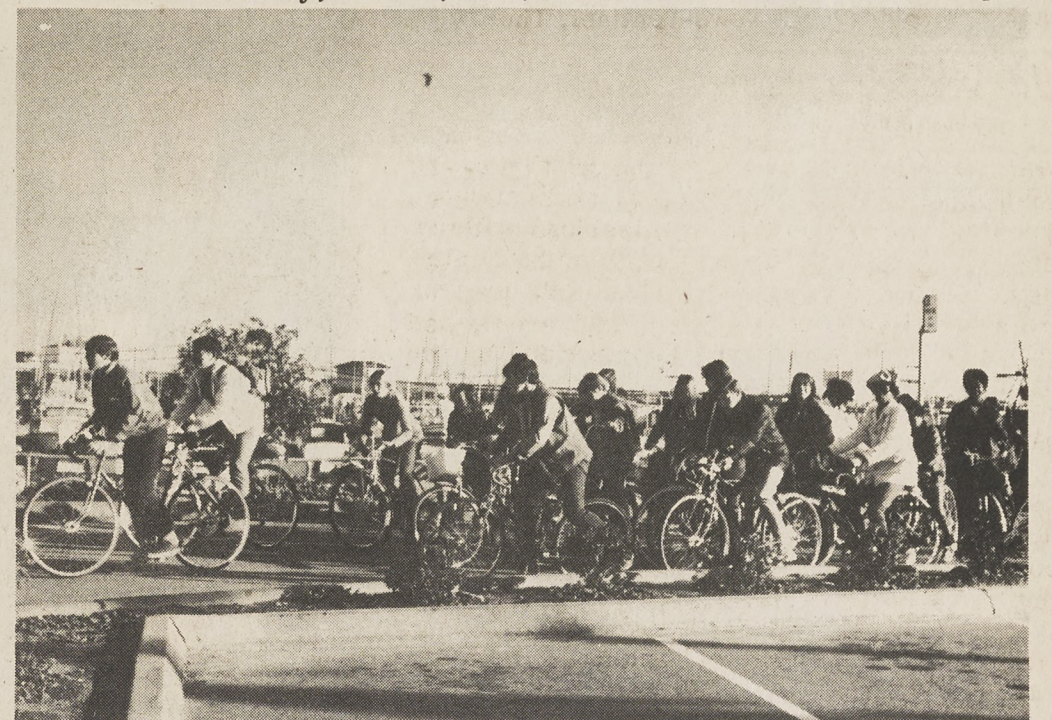

Donald E. Johnson, administrator of Veterans Affairs, has asked all VA contracting officers to seek out small minority business firms and has authorized field trips for VA officials to meet with minority businessmen.

prime motivation.

"Most of the people cooperating in our program are doing so as their personal contributions toward helping clean up the environment and reducing land pollution caused by people who litter," said Cheney. "In fact, an unexpected bonus to our program has been that a significant portion of the glass turned in to date has been glass that was found in public parks and recreation areas and along streets and highways. One of our major objectives is to demonstrate the ease with which used glass bottles—previously considered waste material—can be salvaged and recycled into new glass."

Glass container companies are using crushed old bottles, called cullet, in amounts up to 30 percent or more of raw material requirements. After purchase, they are ground up, melted and reused to make new glass containers.

GCMC's ultimate goal is to reclaim an estimated 11 billion bottles and jars a year for reuse in the bottle-making process.

Teenage Girl Wins Highest Rifle Honor

Martha Rush of Moss Landing has become one of America's top shooters the National Rifle Association recently announced. The Distinguished Expert Award which Martha has received is the highest award given in the NRA Marksmanship Qualification Program.

To achieve this top award, a shooter must work his or her way up through one of the many different courses in the program to attain this title.

Miss Rush, who is sixteen and the daughter of Mrs. Louis Rubins of Moss Landing, joined the Fort Ord Junior Rifle Club in January of 1969 after completing a Basic Rifle Marksmanship Course. She competed in the 1970 Junior Smallbore Position-and-Prone Championship Match held at Fort Ord and conducted by the California Rifle and Pistol Association.

In the Marksmanship Class at that time, Martha won a second place silver medal in standing with a score of 174x 200. In the aggregate of matches 1 through 4 she won a third place bronze medal with a score of 130 x 200. There were 22 competitors shooting in this class.

Also adding more honors to their collection were five other members of the Fort Ord Junior Rifle Club. Earning the NRA's Expert Award, next highest to the Distinguished Expert Award, were Steven J. Beekman, 16, son of Lt. Col. Gerald Beekman of the support Battalion, US Army Combat Developments Command Experimentation Command at Fort Ord; Keith Escobide, 15, son of Sgt. Hilario Escobide of DPT Range Division, Fort Ord; Marina Lahmon, 15, daughter of First Lahmon; Gregory Devlin, 14, son of Commander John Buckley, US Navy and Michael O'Leary, 12, son of First Sergeant (retired) Joseph E. O'Leary of Marina. Gregory also lives in Marina. The other youngsters reside on the Post except Martha who is a Moss Landing girl.

Cranston Wants Meeting

Senator Alan Cranston and the five other West Coast Senators have asked for a meeting with Transportation Secretary John Volpe to discuss their "grave concern" over the omission of a Los Angeles-to-Seattle rail passenger route in administration plans for a national railroad network.

They point out that the 1970 census shows the Pacific slope states to be the fastest growing area of the country and that "projections are for continued rapid growth."

They noted that since 1960, the Los Angeles-Long Beach-San Bernardino-Riverside area showed a 27 percent gain in population; Anaheim-Santa Ana, 100.2 percent; Bakersfield, 113.3 percent; Fresno, 112.2 percent and San Francisco-Oakland, 15.9 percent.

"Adequate passenger rail service needs to be provided along this corridor," they stated in a letter to the Secretary proposing that a work session of staff members precede a meeting with him in January "to share our thoughts and to learn your views."

Joining with Cranston in signing the letter were Senators George Murphy, Warren Magnuson, Henry Jackson, Mark Hatfield and Robert Packwood.

Seaside Man Aboard Ship

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Jose L. Borden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos A. Borden Sr. of Seaside, is serving aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Goldsborough in the Western Pacific.

The Goldsborough recently joined three other U.S. Navy ships and five ships of the Japanese Maritime Self Defense Force in an anti-submarine warfare exercise in the Sea of Japan.

Westinghouse Continues 4-H Support

During the recent National 4-H Congress in Chicago, six teens talented in working with electricity were awarded $600 scholarships. The presentation event marked 35 years of continuous support of the national 4-H electric program by Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

Since beginning 4-H program sponsorship in the depression years of the 1930's the company has awarded 201 scholarships and paid the expenses of 1,225 state 4-H electric winners to National 4-H Congress. Westinghouse also has provided thousands of medals of honor to county winners.

Over the years, Westinghouse has supported 4-H educational goals in numerous other ways. Responding to a need expressed by the Cooperative Extension Service which supervises 4-H, the company has supported the development of educational materials. Covering a wide range of topics and graded to the respective 9-19 year age groups within 4-H, the materials help the younger member wire lamps, make test devices and extension cords. They also learn to read a meter, repair household equipment and to work safely with electricity.

Experienced 4-H members work with sound systems, radio, television, electronics and learn about atomic energy.

With 4-H increasing its services to urban and suburban youth, the 4-H electric program has meaning for boys and girls everywhere, says T. H. Kenton Jr., Westinghouse vice president. Speaking at a recent 4-H Electric Workshop, he noted that 4-H electric is made to order for urban as well as rural youngsters and can attract youngsters of the inner-city.

This Is End Of Era

At Las Vegas recently, the Ford Motor Company held a preview of its 1971 cars.

Henry Ford II addressed the assembled distributors, stating that the auto industry had "come to the end of an era," with the emphasis on style declining and demands growing for safer, cleaner and more reliable cars. These demands require major changes in car design, he said.

But, said Ford, "those changes cannot be completed overnight and they will not come one moment sooner because of deadlines which command the impossible."

The Ford chairman said:

"We have no quarrel with most of the emission and safety standards now in force and we expect to meet increasingly demanding standards in the future."

"At present, however, the auto companies are being pressed into courts, by legislatures, by administrative agencies and by freelance critics to make more progress in these areas more quickly than is at all possible. The time span in which we are supposed to achieve the results demanded of us is just too short."

Ford added that he was talking about "those legislators who vote to ban the internal combustion engine before a usable substitute has been identified, about those state governments that are suing to force us to recall all the cars built since 1935 and rebuild them to emission standards that did not exist until 1968."

A number of states have gone to the Supreme Court asking that car makers reduce pollution on old cars.

Soul Sister Shakes Up Readers

"I am not a man who cries, but I was moved to cry by what Grace Halsell wrote," said Dr. Price M. Cobbs, M.D., co-author of "Black Rage."

He was discussing Grace Halsell's new book, "Soul Sister,"

As John Howard Griffin had done in writing "Black Like Me" in 1959, Miss Halsell, a southern white woman, "turned herself black" through drugs and medication last year.

"Soul Sister" is a journal of her as a "black woman" working as a nurse's aide in Harlem and later as a maid in Mississippi.

Dr. Cobbs says, "Grace Halsell went through the fire and was able to demonstrate a certain kind of empathy with problems of being black. Her book is beautiful because it's so crazy -- a white Texas chick becoming black and living and working in Harlem. That's crazy!"

Mayor Charles Evers of Fayette, Mississippi, observed:

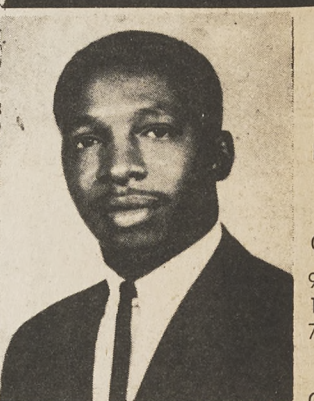

"It's about time that some woman had the courage to tell about how brutal southern white men have been towards black women over the years. My friend, Grace, tells it like it is in her book. I commend her for her courage. I think hers is the most factual book I have read on the treatment of black women by southern white men. One of the problems we have today is the fact that white men are afraid that black men will treat white women as white men have treated black women."

"However," he added, "we're going to prove to whites that black men are not interested in taking advantage of white women. We will treat white women as we want our black women treated."

Also commenting on the book was R. Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi NAACP and chairman of the state Democratic Party. Dr. Henry said: "In terms of reporting incidents and relationships between blacks and whites in Mississippi, Grace Halsell's book is very authentic and revealing. It is good for many people to read and learn that slavery is not over on the South."

Lake Offers Much To Many

The Shasta Lake area is a beautiful country-rich in beauty and resources, rich in lore of gold rush and stage coach eras, rich in the hugeness of its mountains and man-made dams and lakes.

Top attractor of visitors, sportsmen and vacationers to this north-western part of the Golden State is the lake itself, looking like bolts of lightning as its many arms flow up canyons, coves and bays. Its 365 miles of shoreline are cradled in the forested foothills of the Cascade Range.

The California State Automobile Association says there are scores of resorts and campgrounds around the lake and in the Shasta-Trinity National Forest. The waters of the Sacramento, McCloud and Pit Rivers and scores of creeks feed this giant lake where fishing is open year around.

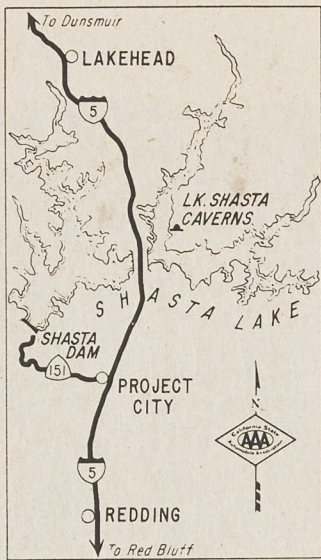

Local experts in the angling game say the best fishing is found in spring and fall when it is cooler, although plenty of the 16 varieties of game-fish are still taken from the deep waters in summertime. Among the fish in Shasta Lake are trout, kamlamps, bass, crappie, catfish, sturgeon and bluegill that delight fishermen with their scrappiness.

Modern highways bring this paradise for all into easy accessibility. Shasta Lake is spanned by the highest double-decked bridge in the world. Though the water is usually less than 40 feet below the bridge, the piers actually rise 500 feet above the bed of the old Pit River. The bridge carries four lanes of highway on the upper deck and two lines of Southern Pacific Railroad tracks on the lower.

One popular way to spend a vacation there is to rent a houseboat and set off on adventures up any of the coves and bays. Those seeking to be away from the crowds will find campsites in the woods that can be reached only by boat.

A visit to Shasta Lake would not be complete without a stop at gigantic Shasta Dam, where self-guided tours take one deep into the dam to see the powerplant. Only Hoover is higher than this California giant, only Grand Coulee contains more concrete.

Shasta Dam is 602 feet high,

3,460 feet long and 541 feet thick at its base.

Started in 1938 as part of the Central Valley Project, it was completed in 1945 at a cost of $120 million.

Its statistics are impressive. The spillway creates a waterfall three times higher than Niagara Falls; contains 6.5 million cubic yards of concrete; its five 15-foot penstocks deliver water at 85 tons per second.

At nighttime, the 3,500-foot curving crest is lighted and deer from the surrounding forest come out by the score to be fed.

A big tourist objective of the lake is Shasta Lake Caverns, located on the east side of the McCloud arm. These beautiful limestone and marble caverns are reached by a 15-minute boat ride across the lake and a bus ride 800 feet up the side of Horse Mountain.

Brilliant colors gleam from the stalactite and stalagmite formations in the Discovery Room and the Cathedral Room. A massive, drapery-like curtain wall of flowstone nearly 100 feet long and 60 feet high in brilliant orange, red, black and brown awes visitors.

Delicate limestone formations are the eye-catcher in the Discovery Room. The tour is just short of one-half mile long and temperatures in the cave are a constant 58 degrees, so bring along a sweater. No protective gear is needed.

Insurance Rate Hike Looms

Recently more than 2,000 members of the National Association of Insurance Agents met at Miami Beach for their 74th Annual Conference. The result was not reassuring for the man who needs insurance--and who doesn't?

The experts at the conference said the insurance situation will get worse for the insurance consumer.

Already, burglary insurance is almost impossible to buy, and policy cancellations are flooding the mails on their way to consumers from companies. Drivers with good records are being "dumped" into pools with thousands of poor drivers. Parents with children near driving age are discovering that the rates are astronomical. Young people are finding themselves as undesirable to the companies as those over 65.

And the list goes on and on. The insurers complain that the rising rates and the cancellations are the direct result of what they call "social problems"--such as the high rate of drunkenness on highways, the delicate exteriors of automobiles and the apparent inability of police to deal with the rising crime of the nation, which is reported to be up by 11 percent in the first half of 1970, according to a recent statement by Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

The consensus of the agents' convention was that consumers will soon be paying more for coverage and getting less for their insurance dollars. Many will have to deal before long with a computer, and many more will be almost lost in the shuffle as agents turn over routing problems to clerical helpers.

B.P. Russell, president of Crum and Forster of New York, one of the industry's leaders, said that the consumer was "going to feel it right in the pocketbook."

Auto rates are expected by Bernard J. Burns of Milford, Connecticut, to rise as much as 15 percent in the next year or 15 months. He predicts that home-owners' rates will go up as much as 20 percent during that period. He also looks for a rise in insurance-policy deductions.

White After Dark

Your attitude is crucial in determining your safety as a pedestrian on these dark, often rainy nights of December. If the pedestrian wants to help drivers, he will do everything he can to make himself visible to them. The best way, according to the California

WINNER. AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

State Automobile Association, is to carry a light and wear white.

White is easily seen at night because it reflects light from the headlights back to the eyes of the driver and because it contrasts against the darkness of the night.

The AAA motoring organization urges all to be aware of the importance of being seen, to wear white and/or special reflective materials at night, to buy white or light colored clothing for their children, and to make sure that they use it.

This is especially important because many children are still out playing when darkness arrives in early evening hours.

As part of AAA's nationwide school traffic safety education program, a special poster illustration the safety of wearing white at night is being distributed to schools throughout the country.

Bronze Star Awarded

Army major David L. Lange whose wife Christa lives in Marina recently received the Bronze Star Medal near Long Binh, Vietnam.

He was presented the Bronze Star Medal for distinguishing himself through meritorious service in connection with military operations against hostile forces in Vietnam. The medal, adopted in 1944, recognizes outstanding achievement.

GUEST SPEAKER -- Joseph Askey (third from right), founder of Milestone Inc., told sophomore class of Seaside High School recently of problems of drug addiction. Askey, who is setting up drug rehabilitation center in Carmel Valley, recruited over 50 youths to work as volunteers. Others taking part in program were: (from left) Robert Deweese, assistant principal of instruction at Seaside High; Dr. Van Horn, associate of Askey; J. J. Beene, vice-principal; Askey; Billy Leone and Dr. Miller, both associates of Askey.

Federal Grants Remain Open-Ended

Senator Alan Cranston recently led a bipartisan coalition in beating back an Administration effort to pass on to the states and local property owners an estimated $21.5 million in welfare costs which traditionally have been borne by the federal government.

The cost to California, had the Administration succeeded, would have been around $78,700,000 for the current fiscal year, Cranston said.

The Senate, on November 20 approved by a 57-20 vote an amendment which Cranston had introduced to keep federal grants for operating state welfare programs "open-ended."

The federal government's contribution for operating expenses has normally been based on the size of the state's welfare program. For the first time, the Nixon Administration tried to put a flat limit on such contributions.

Initially, it sought to impose a ceiling of 10 percent over its last fiscal year's contribution, but the House Appropriations Committee rejected the move. The Administration then offered a higher, compromise figure and the Senate Appropriations Committee approved a ceiling of 15 percent over last year, which it included in Section 208 of H.R. 18515 of the Labor-Health, Education and Welfare Appropriation Act.

Cranston's Senate - approved amendment to the act eliminated the proposed 15 percent ceiling and restored the open-ended method of determining the size of federal grants authorized by the Social Security Act. It had the support of the National League of Cities U.S. Conference of Mayors, the Governors' Conference, the AFL-CIO and the Public Welfare Association of America.

Senator Fred Harris of Oklahoma, who along with Cranston led the floor fight for the measure, was one of the original sponsors. There were 25 co-sponsors, including four--Senators Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia, Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Jacob K. Javits of New York -- whom Cranston singled out for their help in lining up support.

Cranston pointed out that the Social Security Act "in effect makes a pact with the states that the federal share of the administrative and social service expenses of its local welfare programs be opened and governed only by the extent of state expenditures and payments."

"To have defaulted on this obligation in mid-fiscal year would have caused absolute chaos throughout the land," he said.

Cranston said he was sympathetic with the Administration's desire to reduce unnecessary administrative costs, "but this was not an economy move, it was ax-wielding."

Senator Harris asserted that "if there is waste or inefficiency it is the job of the Secretary of Health Education and Welfare to see that it is eliminated. If the Secretary feels he does not have enough power to do the job properly, he should come before Congress and present his case; we would gladly consider any reasonable recommendation for improving the program."

"At this time of rising unemployment and in the aftermath of the Supreme Court decision invalidating residency requirements, many states--including California -- have been experiencing significant increases in new applications for public assistance," Cranston pointed out. "Such increases in turn are escalating administrative costs for personnel to validate applicants eligibility, to manage the constantly growing program and to handle monthly payments to millions of recipients."

Returns To Port

fic. During the 26 years since commissioning, Bon Homme Richard distinguished herself in three major conflicts, World War II, Korea and Vietnam -- the only Navy attack carrier to claim that record. Nelson is a 1968 graduate of North Salinas High School.
